FATAL RESULT TO MILLER SHOOTING

Daniel Miller, Former Proprietor of Hotel Gettysburg, Died Tuesday Afternoon from Wounds Inflicted by Discharged Waiter.

After lingering for a week, Daniel K. Miller, proprietor of the Dauphin Hotel, Harrisburg, who was shot four times by Leonidas Gilbert, a waiter, in the lobby of the hotel Tuesday evening, June 27, died at the Harrisburg hospital Tuesday, July 4th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Death was due to massive of the left lung.

Mr. Miller's condition was reported good up until 8 o'clock Tuesday morning when he suffered a relapse. He remained conscious until he died, shortly after he became serious, his brother, Harry Miller, wife and several other near relatives were summoned. They were at his bed side when he died.

A post mortem examination was made by Dr George Kunkel and Dr. Frederick A. Lohr shortly after death this afternoon, but the bullet could not be located. The ball entered through the fourth rib through the left lung and struck the fifth rib, near the eighth rib. The course the bullet took after it struck the lung the attending physicians are not told.

Shortly after Mr. Miller's death word was sent to the jail, and Gilbert was at once notified. As soon as the warden of the jail told Gilbert that Miller was dead he collapsed completely. When his senses were brought to him at 9 o'clock he told the "runner" that he did not want anything to eat. The charge of felonious assault will change to kill with which he is now booked.

Mr. Miller was born on the Miller homestead, near Dillsburg, April 19 1866 and received his education in the public schools of Dillsburg. After graduating from the old Conway hall academy he entered the milling business with his brother Harry M. Miller. The business only a short time when he opened a bake shop and confectionery for the purpose of his sons. After retiring from the bake shop he entered the hotel business with his brother, Harry, entered into the livery business at Mechanicsburg. After several years in this business he sold out his brother discontinued partnership and he purchased the Bentz hotel at Mechanicsburg of which he was proprietor for some time. After leasing the hotel business he purchased a restaurant in the same town and continued all this business very successfully for several years.

Shortly after retiring from the hotel business he went to live with a son in Tampa, Florida, where he remained for six months. On his return to the south he and his brother, Harry again entered into the hotel business in Gettysburg where they continued for more than five years. From Gettysburg they went to Harrisburg where they were in the hotel business in that city for two years in the Hotel Lancaster Mr. Daniel Miller purchased a hotel in Harrisburg, now remained at the latter place for short five years when he purchased the cigar and confectioners of Steckler Brothers, on Market street, which he conducted for about two years. He then went to Carlisle, where he made a home for his wife, brother, Harry, proprietor of the Dauphin Hotel. Last summer Mr. Miller took a trip to San Antonio, Texas, where he remained for several months. In this spring he purchased the Dauphin hotel in Harrisburg in which business he was engaged at the time of his death.

He is survived by two sisters, Miss Amanda Miller, of Dillsburg; Mrs. George Strayer, of Dillsburg, York county, and two brothers, O. Milton Miller, of York, and Harry Miller of Harrisburg.

LANDSLIDE ON SEWER EXTENSION

Street Commissioner Newmen and Force of Men Hurry to Places of Safety as Wall of Ditch Falls in, Sewer Work Proceeds.

Street Commissioner Newmen and his force of men had a narrow escape from injury Monday morning when the ten foot sewer excavation in Race Horse alley by the Reading railroad, was undermining side of the deep ditch was the cause of a landslide, tons of earth and rock rushed from the opening and a few seconds later the whole side of the excavate to get to places of safety.

The excavation is a short distance from the regular borough sewer to Carlisle street and is being made in connection with the branch by the contractors.

The men had been at work a good deal of from night to ten feet and the force had just with a gang of men at work necessitating frequent blasting. Good progress was being made and it is said it will not be many days before the sewer will be ready for connection.

Wednesday's trouble was caused when the earth near the top of the ditch began to give way. A little pressure and falling and one of Mr. Newmen's men noticed it. There was a shower and a small fissure. He cried to the men to get out of the ditch and they were made. They got the warning not a moment too soon for the side of the excavation came tumbling down and would have buried several of the men.

Preparations here been taken to protect the excavation from the weather.

The alley contains quite a number of small drain pipes all of which will have to be connected with the sanitary sewer.

MAINTAINING A GOOD ROAD.

Organized and Systematized Work Necessary.

SUPERVISION MAIN THING.

Without That the Road is Liable to Be Built, Wrong or Unscrupulous Contractors Taking Advantage of This Inefficiency, Cheat the Country—Note Must Be Filled Up.

It requires three things to make a great country—the right kind of people, productive land, means of communication and transportation, says Curtis Hill, state highway engineer of Missouri. Fix your attention upon the last question from the standpoint of communication and transportation, with the highway as an important part of the transportation system.

Draw a mind sketch in which imagine yourself making a large map of your state. On this map draw lines representing the railroads and mark the tonnage of freight carried by them. Then draw a second set of different colored lines representing the waterways and mark the tonnage of freight carried by them. In still another color make a third set of lines to represent the public wagon roads and mark thereon the tonnages of freight moved over them. Note the comparison in tonnage transported and you will see that the proportion moved over the highways originating in the state exceeds either of the others.

This map will also show that, while the railways and waterways depend upon some firms and communities, the highways reach them all. Then it is the highway as important factor in the system of transportation, as important as the railway or waterway? It requires these all—highway, waterway and railway—to make up the complete plan of transportation, and the very basis of this transportation system is the highway.

If we assume that road building is to be done in an economical and systematic manner as to produce in the end good road and then the roads should be built to meet the needs and the demands of the traffic which must use them. It follows that all the roads should not be located, graded and surfaced alike, should all be of earth. Many of the stones have a diversity of road making material that no one method or plan of construction is adaptable to all parts of a state, and plans must frequently be made to suit local needs.

In one section rock construction is best, in another gravel, and in still others sand-clay or chert. A special feature in some counties will be the elongated earth road, while in others concrete or macadam for instance or bridges may be pre-eminent. It is necessary for the highway engineer to study the field and choose the methods, means and materials which afford the best quality.

Organized, systematized work presents two issues. In the organized, systematized work is impossible without competent and trained supervision. Without supervision is the correct principle with which to carry out the theories. "Supervision" might be substituted for "system," because a road office will be found to be suited for the work and is retained regularly if his work is to be common a "trained or skilled" road man.

A capable man in such an office can see that the work is done right, protect the county against unscrupulous contractors, open the road drains and prevent the roads from being used for antidiluvian farm drains.

Then they are the only good roads most in this state are of the kind that will be worn out in time. The lack of maintenance—ordinary necessity, the lack of proper system for maintenance. Turf and sod in the summer time constitute nearly the roads down, and we must be scientifically building them.

Any kind of road gradually wears away, and the best way to maintain it is the road will gradually go down. The old adage is true that "A stitch in time saves nine."

GOOD HANDS GOOD HORSES. CON. T. TARIOUS.

Nothing good roads is known—but good horses and mules are a close second. Keep them well and they will last nearly forever. Feed them right and they will be strong and healthy. Use the best of improved implements and harness—Dandy Stock Food has been established, after a test of many years, as the foremost stock food.

WHEN CHAUFFEURS SMILED.

Lipsey Founder and His Wife Enjoy Watching Children's Frolics.

The Laird of Skibo, otherwise Andrew Carnegie, literary founder, formerly steel Lordmayor, who, is employed by some to be a truly canny Scotchman, has a distinctly human streak—demonstrated all the millions he has and is trying to give away before he dies. He is not much given to the except golf, of course, but he enjoys the simple pleasures.

Central park, New York, Mr. Carnegie and his wife were interested spectators. His little sons at their play and said that they enjoyed it "awfully much." He accompanied his, heartily enjoying the frolics of the children. It is the same as her face is the accompanying picture, reproduced from a recent photograph. One can scarcely tell which is the more interested spectator. Mr. Carnegie, the expression on his face is unmistakable.

Dr. Goodnow Contrast Rugged to Strenuous Experience.

Former President Frantis M. Cockrel of Missouri at seventy-six years old is the ideal of an experience of strenuous as those of fifty years ago. Then he fought in the war as a Confederate officer. A letter from Cockrell's of the beginning of the war, he was as a member of the commission to settle boundary disputes between New Mexico and Texas. Cockrell sat out Mountain, Texas, and from there drove to the southeastern corner of

"In Abilene I got a chair, three poles and a mules, a cook, an assistant and a precinct from sand, a simple barrel shelter and a traveling library to while away the time.

"Our camp was a shifting one, moving from place to place, and I had a lively time of it. Sometimes we would have to go 100 miles to get a letter. The nearest mail station was Tucumcari, which at a conservative estimate are related to about 500 miles to 500.

In Sydney, South Australia, a sum of $500,000 is to be provided annually by parliament for the use of persons of desire loans to enable them to build a dwelling house or enlarge or improve their present accommodation or to discharge mortgages on their homes. OTHER ROADS TO BE BUILT SOON

In Addition to Harrisburg Road, State Highway Commissioner will have Work Started Early on Other Gettysburg Roads.

That the new road between Gettysburg and Harrisburg will not be the only state road entering Gettysburg to be reconstructed in the near future according to the statement of State Highway Commissioner E. M. Bigelow is intimated in a statement issued by Bigelow that states that the various roads leading to Gettysburg would will come in for under the first sections to be rebuilt. Seven state roads will enter Gettysburg when the improvement of the system is still coming from the following towns, Harrisburg, Carlisle, Chambersburg, Fairfield, Littlestown, Hanover and York.

Actual work on the reconstruction of roads which are to form parts of the state's system of main highways will be started within the next six or eight weeks, if the present plans of State Highway Commissioner Bigelow are carried out.

The new chief of the road building department will complete the improvement section of his staff within a short time and will begin work on the roads right away this year. The will include the building of a bridge over the Susquehanna Valley, including Lewistown Narrows and the reconstruction of many roads. Ultimately this will be a part of the Lincoln highway and will be the twenty feet or more in width from end to end of the state.

While this is going on it is the idea to start reconstruction of roads leading to the bridges over the highway.

WILL PLASTER HOTEL EXTERIOR

Hotel Gettysburg Exterior to be Plastered with Cement. Other Changes to Building Proceeding Rapidly. Entirely Refurnished.

Among the extensive alterations and improvements to the Hotel Gettysburg which have been in progress for several weeks will be added in the near future the plastering with cement of the entire exterior of the large building. Contracts have been let for this and in thickness will cost the building and is expected to make a great change in the appearance of the hotel.

The other changes have been going along rapidly. Many private baths have been installed, about two thirds of the rooms of the hotel have been remodeling bath. The ladies' parlor at the front of the hotel, the first has been toilet and wash room attached and other similar improvements will be made six where in the building.

The extensive changes to the basement, an outline of which has been given in The Times, will not be made at present but will be taken after some of the more important work has been completed.

The dining room on the Carlisle street side of the hotel is being pushed along rapidly. This morning the large glass windows in the front were removed and will be put in place immediately. It was intended to have a new dining hall, which will be made by the addition of several new sleeping rooms, ready for use for the first tourist trafic.

While all of the extensive changes to the building was made necessary by the fire which destroyed the roof and end of the fact that it had been built many years ago, when the hotel was new it was torn down and is now being rebuilt on a modern plan. The roof and the wall and roof had both much over and had caused considerable.

The hotel is to be refurnished throughout, several carloads of furniture having been received during the past week, when all the improvements and remodeling are completed. Manager Hotel Gettysburg will present a thoroughly modern interior and exterior appearance.

MURDERER IS UNCONSCIENCED

Murderer of Belle Stubbs at Hunt Also Now in Franklin County Jail Gaines, Sings and is apparently without Care or Trouble.

One of the least concerned and apparently happiest and most care free men in the Franklin county jail is William Reed, charged with the murder of Belle Stubbs, at Hunt Ailo some weeks ago.

Both in the report from the officials of the jail, who cannot repress their feeling of amusement at the man's mood. At 6 o'clock in the morning the officials are aware that the man broker down or shows any fear on that account of the murder

When he is permitted to go into the corridors with the other prisoners for exercise he dances, sings, plays cards and generally deports himself as one whom mind is free of any care or any worriment and he does not show any shyness when visitors pass through the jail or visiting day and ask, "Which one is Reed?"

In fact, one when Reed was getting shaved and a visitor was being shown through and cautiously asked the question, "Which is Reed, who shot the woman?" Reed got up from his chair with lather over his face and turning said, "I am Reed," as if rather proud of the distinction.

The jail officials predict that Reed will be gone and out of jail in a brief while will likely take place at the September term of court.

NOTICE OF
Change of Borough's Name
TO BE KNOWN HEREAFTER BOROUGH
To all whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that the application of over ten hundred (1000) of the inhabitants of Borough Boundary, Adams County, Pennsylvania, for a change of the name of said Borough to Hancock Borough having been filed in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Adams County, on the 26th day of April, 1911, and approved by the Hon. Court and the Appointment of said Court of Quarter Sessions of Adams County, and Court Order dated April 26, 1911.

JACOB F. THOMAS
Clerk of Quarter Sessions.

EARLIER DATE FOR INSTITUTE

Adams County Teachers' Institute will be Held in Gettysburg One Year Two Weeks Earlier than for Several Years Past.

The annual Adams County Teachers' Institute will be held this year the week of September 4 to 8 inclusive, one later than during the past two years. The institute will be held in the Opera Chapel. Three years ago it was decided that the session should be held the first autumn Thanksgiving week, as had been the custom for many years, and it was accordingly placed the week preceding Thanksgiving. The change was not a popular one in the end for the next two years the week following Thanksgiving was held.

If this were to be followed this year it was in place teachers on the week of December 4 which to them did not seem to Christmas, especially in view of the holiday vacations of the borough schools, and the week of November 27 has accordingly been chosen.

County Superintendent M. Milton Roth is busily engaging attractions and instructors for this year's sessions. The evening entertainments will be unusually strong. Ex-Governor Robert E. Cluer, of North Dakota, has been engaged to deliver the lecture of the entertainment course. He is said to be one of the best known men on the lecture platform today and Prof. Roth feels fortunate in securing him.

The other evening attractions will be the Commonwealth Male Quartet, who appeared at Institute five years ago and who were very well received; the Tyrolean Alpine Singers and Yodlers, a novel musical attraction; and the Goodfellows' Singers, one of the best entertainment companies which has yet appeared before an Adams County Teachers' Institute.

Superintendent Roth is in correspondence with a number of instructors for the day sessions but has closed definitely with only one, Miss Grace L. Warner, of Elmira, New York. Prof. Warren S. Gowen, with the School Department of the state of New York, Robert C. Shaffer, of Pittsburg, has been engaged to lead the singing of the week. He is said to be one of the foremost men in his line.

TRACTION ENDINGS ARGUED

Traction sagittam in the county will be considered by the board of county county purpose, according to state legislation passed at Harrisburg, which was passed by the legislature and approved by the governor. The proper provides for the engines to be assembled at the county seat either by the manner or other personal property, including automobiles, and to be operated over the highways.

The law which will be enforced for the first time when the 1911 assessment is taken is as follows:

It is enacted &c. That from and after the passage of this act, all traction engines shall be assessed for taxation, and the same shall be assessed by the assessors for taxation in the several districts of the county in which they may be found at their fair cash value, in the same manner as other personal property is assessed: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve such traction engines from liability to the laws of the commonwealth.

BRIDGE CONCRETE TILE.

Simple and Effective Method of Constructing Bridge Floors.

Concrete tiles become harder and stronger the longer they are set. Made in process as clay tile, the concrete tiles are set in place and the joints filled with concrete. The concrete is then running between tiles and a uniform surface. The accompanying cut shows a device for making a tile deck bridge. The tiles are reinforced and when the may be constructed.

A low form is built of the boards eighteen inches long and eight inches wide, the bottom boards being twelve long and ten inches wide. These are reinforced with wire as shown. The inside measurements being right by the thickness of the boards. The Portland cement, together with sand brought in each of two proportions and the fourth corner flanges two wires are placed in the bottom of the form, this to be folded back from the tile when placed in the floor and over one of the last seams three concrete are placed in the form, but not the outside of the tile only.

For the core take a set lock stave, the length of the tile made of it and inside the same plane a six inch board being laid long, as long is narrowly. The top of this board is cut to make a triangle three and one-half inches. The core is cut down to leave a small three-quarter inch piece, as at "a" in the cut, the corners into the holes bored in the pol-lets, thus centering the core in the form. The core is made of oak or other hard wood, and is given a coat of linseed oil before using. In using the concrete, it is spread a three-quarter inch layer to form the face of the tile, and the core is placed in the core.

The inside part of the mold is held in position by four iron pins or spikes. The core is then lifted out, leaving the tile on the pallet and then on each side of the tile is placed a three-inch layer of concrete for the side walls. The tile is then easily inserted and set in place.

A pallet is prepared for as many tiles as are to be made at one time, and the tiles are left as in for at least twenty-four hours before removing, when they may be piled up and the pallets used again.

In operation the mold is placed in position on the pallet and the core in place. The mortar is placed in the bottom of the mold, the wire inserted and temp down until the mold is filled. The concrete is then put in place and tamped down until the mold is filled. The concrete is then put in place and tamped down until the mold is filled. The concrete is then put in place and tamped

C. E. CHIEF WANTED TO QUIT

Rev. Clark Prevailed Upon to Continue as President.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

International Convention at Atlantic City All Ready to Great Provincial Tuft This Evening.—His Visit Cut Short.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7. — The thousands of delegates to the twenty-fifth International Christian Endeavor convention on the Million Dollar pier were much excited to learn that the organization had nearly lost Rev. F. E. Clark as president.

It was announced at the meeting of the trustees, which marked the formal opening of the convention, that Mr. Clark had handed in his resignation last winter. More work than he could do to produce to and retain his health was the reason assigned.

As Dr. Clark is not only the founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, but has been its head since he left his pulpit, his loss would have been irreparable, according to the best opinion.

The executive committee of the board of trustees, of its own initiative, voted to rule to Dr. Clark, of all other work on Jan. 31, 1911, giving him absolute freedom for the year. The committee also voted to ask the privilege of standing the many state and sectional conferences and conventions. As Dr. Clark is sixty years old, the labor-saver he was compelled to take, upon his knee would have been irreparable, according to the best opinion.

The executive committee of the board of trustees, of its own initiative, voted to rule to Dr. Clark, of all other work on Jan. 31, 1911, giving him absolute freedom for the year. The committee also voted to ask the privilege of standing the many state and sectional conferences and conventions.

"Dr. Clark can't abdicate, no difference how hard he tries," was the slogan of the delegates.

The other officers were re-elected. There were a few changes in the board of trustees. John Willis Baer, being one of the new ones chosen. He was elected to fill the unexpired term of W. A. Patterson, of Philadelphia, who died during the year.

Plans appeared to be under way for many directories of Atlantic City would grace dozens of the splendid edict of this convention, were waved aside by Dr. Eirwin, D. D., of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor League, who reminded the delegates that the convention held in Saratoga Springs twenty years ago, when the race track was running and everything in full blast, had been the best ever in spiritual blessings.

It was announced that President Taft would only be able to make the shortest kind of a visit to the convention. This news was received with the greatest regret as it had been hoped the president would be able to be present for a full day and a reception in the state room would give the delegates a chance to meet him.

As it is, the president will arrive only two hours and a half in the receipt, arriving here at 7:30 o'clock tonight and leaving at 10 o'clock. Plans to give him a rousing reception at the station have been reluctantly called off by special request of Mr. Taft, who sent word that he wished no reception committee or any kind of fuss when he reached the Pennsylvania railroad station.

Judge Ben Lindsey, the famous Colorado jurist, who will share honors with President Taft at the meeting in the large auditorium, is due to arrive here and will speak at one or two of the sectional meetings.

Booker T. Washington, the colored educator, is expected to address the convention.

William Shaw, secretary of the board of trustees, said 25,000 delegates and visitors are expected to be here for the convention, and already the hotels are filled up. The Christian Endeavorers are will only stop at houses where liquor is not sold.

GOVERNMENT AGAIN SUES COAL ROADS

Starts Test Case to Break Their Control of Mines.

Washington, July 7. — The government will resume the fight to take from the great coal-carrying railroads their financial control of the mines and to settle the commodities clause of the interstate commerce act.

A test case against the Lehigh Valley Railroad company was filed in the United States court in Philadelphia.

That the Lehigh Valley Coal company, Coxe Brothers, Inc., the New York & Middlesex Railroad and Canal company, and the Locust Mountain Coal & Iron company are not bona fide coal companies, but merely ad juncts to the Lehigh Valley railroad, and are "devices for evading the commodities clause," is the government's principal complaint. It is also charged that the Lehigh Valley railroad has the object of removing competition, and that the Lehigh Valley Coal company has entered into agreements with other railroads operators, but principally with the Lehigh Valley lines and through the coal company has fixed the price of coal in the open markets.

The government charges that all through the buying of coal from other companies than those owned by the railroad.

To support its claim that the coal companies are but adjuncts of the railroad and the coal companies are but adjuncts of the railroad and that the directors and the executive committee of the railroad are the directors and executive committee of the coal company.

JOHN GATES CRITICALLY ILL

Feels Physicians Hold Out Little Hope For American Financier.

Paris, July 7.—The condition of John W. Gates is extremely serious and his physicians have no encouraging conclusion, and it now seems likely that the famous financier will not leave the Hotel de Bourgogne in Europe, where he has been ill for weeks.

Mr. Gates went to London to put through the deal with Lord Cowdray which meant to the Panama Mexican is Mexico at a time when he should have remained in Paris for the operation that he was told was necessary before the removal of a tumor.

Since he returned from London Dr. Dowse has performed another slight operation for the removal of the tumor, but in itself was almost a harmless growth of a non-cancerous nature, that was attacked in the throat.

Senator's Wife Improves.

Washington, July 7.—Senator and Mrs. Lorimer, who for several days have been patients at a local hospital for nervous diseases, left the sanitarium today that they were able to leave the city for their summer home at Chicago. Mrs. Lorimer's condition is reported to be such that the physicians believe the change will soon restore to her active duties.

THE OIL TRUST TO REORGANIZE

Control of the Industry Will Remain the Same.

TO OBEY COURT'S DECREE

Parent Concern to Dissolve and Subsidiaries to Operate Alone Under Same Name.—His Wealth Cut.

New York, July 7.—Within a short time, possibly the next twenty-four hours, plans for reorganizing the Standard Oil company will be made public.

It was learned that directors of the trust had decided on the scheme for obeying part of the commission, with its $500,000,000 assets, so as to comply with the anti-trust decree of the United States supreme court six weeks ago, and do nothing now about in the way of formal announcement.

Directors of the company have been in session almost daily for more than a week, and will be in session all day in the last week, John D. Rockefeller, chairman of the board, presiding. Action on several occasions at the meetings, it is said, has been taken, lending a hand in putting on the finishing touches.

Nothing has been said officially concerning the reorganization scheme, but it is understood that the plan decided on that it was comprehensive, and that the company would cease to exist for the ban of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Subsidiaries to Operate Separately.

The subsidiaries, such as the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which is the parent concern of the Standard Oil trust, would undergo complete disintegration, in other words, the stockholders charged with owning controlling interest in the various companies composing the whole operations separately, but in the same manner as they now own the stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

In this way, it was explained, the commission would be obeying the court decision, and would not, as had been feared, be forced to dissolve so as to separate concerns under a single head.

According to the information of those who are close to the directors, the plans dissolution is contemplated, and the reorganization will be on the agreement basis of the old Standard Oil trust, which formerly made up the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

It is the opinion of certain interests that the reorganization will be so arranged that under such a reorganization there will be no change in the control or the legality of the company's acts, while the ban of the supreme court will also be effected.

Forced to Remain Same.

But notwithstanding that the iron hand of the law is to be felt by the parents, with their own apparent organization, the Standard Oil trust will be forced in no way will control of any single one of the subsidiaries, in the dividing and subdividing the combine. The chief holding now held by the oil men seems to be that small shareholders will be inconsiderable, and take part in the reorganization, so that the control will remain with the original shares of the various subsidiary companies, which will be reorganized under the new plan.

There are many Standard Oil subsidiaries, with a total capitalization of $10,000,000 a year, while others show a capitalization of $1,000,000 a year, and an equable distribution to the shareholders. Some of these pay 10 per cent, while others pay 20 per cent, and so forth.

The plan of dissolution under the 500 subsidiary companies. Some of these companies have capitalization of a few hundred dollars each. If the stockholders in the subsidiaries companies were exchanged for the stock of the parent company, the shareholders would be compelled to pay taxes in different companies, domestic and foreign.

EXPLOSION WITHIN SANK MAINE, HE SAYS

General Bixby Declares Three Magazines Blew Up.

Washington, July 7.—The loss of the battleship Maine was caused by an internal explosion—by the explosion of two three magazines. No such effect as the explosion of the coal bunkers could have been caused by an explosion from without.

Such is the opinion of General William H. Bixby, chief of engineers, U. S. A., who has returned from a personal investigation of the wreck of the Maine in Havana harbor.

While inspecting the work General Bixby prodded around the bow of the wreck. He found it to be compressed at least two-thirds of the bow were entirely wrecked.

The sides had been practically blown out and were hurled in the air. This, he said, showed conclusively that the explosion was within the ship's hull—an explosion which must have been terrific, and that a portion of the ship's bottom had been blown upward and laid backward and to the side. Another conclusive evidence of the bulk, as it lies in Havana harbor, is the fact that the bow, aside from the outside, said the general, was practically intact and whole.

"What the primary cause of the explosion was," said General Bixby, "never will be learned."

General Bixby said he believes that the bodies of those who lost their lives in the Maine are in the wreck. He says they are probably buried 200 feet or more from the bow of the ship.

KILLS ACCUSED OF FALSEHOOD

Taft's Secretary Turned Head of False News Bureau.

HORNAS MAKES CHARGES

Insurgent Decisive Attempt is Being Made to Injure Senator LaFollette by Sending Out Lies.

Washington, July 7.—Charges that Charles D. Hilles, secretary to the president, is acting at the head of a "political news bureau," which "suppresses truth" and issues "misleading and false" reports as to sentiment throughout the country on public issues, were made in a letter by Representative Norris, of Nebraska.

The insurgent leader in the house addressed his letter to the Nebraska Progressive Republican league.

Almost at the same time it developed that Mr. Hilles was a principal in a political dispute within the interior department, which resulted in the placing of Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, at the head of the department. This dispute arose over the Republican state chairmanship in Washington, and it was said last night lead to forcing the president to choose between Mr. Hilles and Representative General Hitchcock as political adviser, a choice which will affect the national convention one year hence.

Mr. Norris's charges against Hilles raised astonishing of a sensation. The Nebraska insurgent charged that Hilles "suppressed" facts relative to sentiment throughout the country and issued "misleading and false reports" in such a way as to answer to telegrams from the white house concerning the political complexion of Frank A. Shutsell, who, it was said, was being considered for an agent of the Progressive league, and to "color" the press with false statements favoring the renomination of President Taft.

Mr. Norris charged that the president's secretary was "using the machinery of great newspapers" in suppressing the truth and in misleading the public in the interest of a reactionary movement. After referring to a telegram received from Shutsell, the letter closes:

"Many serious articles have since marks that strongly indicate that they were inspired by Mr. Hilles. It is not think that the president himself would be guilty of such work, but I do not know that he had knowledge of it. I do not know that Mr. Hilles has been instructed by the president to suppress necessary and almost without parallel in the history of the country. I contain items of information that are favorable to the progressive movement, one closely connected with the White House.

"I am reluctantly led to believe that Mr. Hilles has been instructed by the head of a political news bureau that has been established for the purpose of suppress any sentiment in favor of the progressive movement, and that he is to do this by the suppression of truth and the publication of misleading and false reports."

Mr. Hitchcock rose over the selection of a Republican state chairman for Washington, which was opposed by the White House.

Mr. Hitchcock resigned as chairman of the Republican national committee, but was re-elected by the cabinet, but his action caused a sensation throughout, particularly in the southern states. A fight is now on in which Mr. Hitchcock and Mr. Hilles has been predicted, but it was said last night that it had been settled.

STATUE TO WASHINGTON

Sailors Stand Sponsors for Brisbane Bronze.

London, July 7.—T. Good, editor and author, presiding at the Fourth of July celebration of the Society for the veterans of the Civil War, and the Sons of the American Revolution, over a greater debt than to George Washington, the founder of the republic of the eighteenth century."

Washington, the speaker, had indirectly taught Great Britain how to govern her colonies in the British empire.

"Those days and other reasons," added Mr. Good, "I hope the statue of Washington, which is to be erected in Brisbane, Australia, will be a source of inspiration throughout the British empire. Those who have not yet been taught by George Washington, the unyielding love of liberty, democracy and the new dramatic method of celebrating the completion of a century of peace between the British and the American people."

Cows' udders can be developed at any age, or, rather, light quarters or udder of a cow's udder can be made to give an even amount of milk with the heavy quarters. Mrs. Ida Emerson, who has a herd of cows on her farm near Ames, says D. E. Reed in the Des Moines Register and Leader, has been rather interested on several years when she tried a new method which she had one side of her udder much more developed than the other side and had been giving more milk from

There are several theories of Jacques Loeb, the scientist, as to the cause of the starving appetites. Appetite, he says, there is a demand for material used there. The demand is made upon the whole body to be supplied by a certain food. Thus, when a man is hungry, says Dr. Loeb, his muscles are tired, he wishes to rest and sleep, his nerves are weak, he is irritable and his blood is thin. Each of these conditions is a demand for material to build up the muscles, nerves and blood. When the body gets the food it needs, all of these conditions disappear.

the side. We let the calf suck the light side and milked the other, but not all the milk, only enough to keep a calf in each full teat. This we did nursing and four times a day for a week. Then I took the calf off and was surprised to find the two sides even.

The only difficulty in this process is to get the calf to suck the light side first. If the calf begins to suck on one side of a cow it may refuse to suck on to take certain teats first. By this experience we could see that we thought we had discovered something, but after a few days the calf would undrop a dead calf. This cow not her calf for a few days, and then she would suck the light side first. Then the calf would be diagonally muscled. Next the cow would feed the calf one quarter third or a half more milk than the others. As a result the cow soon began distributing the light teats quite dry and the calf would suck the heavy teats. This udder was also very well balanced up by the process and the quarters even.

Another cow fresh last spring was also developed also by the same method. I think the encouragement of certain quarters of the udder to greater activity caused by the calf first sucking them, and perhaps also by the manipulation, brings more blood and tends to produce milk in the nerve so headed.

Mose Rainer to Run in Number of Events—Mike Murray Among Them.

The other side of the pond seems to have a great attraction for several of our athletes. Not satisfied with cleaning up in this country, they are anxious to go abroad and add more scalps to their belts. At least six of America's best amateurs and professionals will be competing abroad this summer.

Mel O. Sheppard, the world's great-est amateur middle distance runner, has jumped out a seventeen complete for the year and is hopeful of adding a number of new records to his already long list.

If his plans go through Sheppard intends to sail for Scotland July 4 and return Aug. 15. The Scots hold three sets of games during the middle of Founders of the Shire breed of draft horses restored their fine reputation in the show ring at the Royal Agricultural show at Islington and in that they stand the best. Shires are noted for their docility, massive type and low appointed by heavy muscle. Their necks set on in a way to give a long shoulder, more without resulting a flatness of withers. Their backs are short, with strong loin and coupling, their legs and matchless long and heavy. The Shire mare Lofty Duchess of Bedford, shown above, is a fine example of a typical Shire in strong and clean cut. She is a dark bay with white feet and a white star. Her head is well set off by a long neck and her shoulders are well placed. Her back is short and her quarters are long and well muscled. The Shire mare Princess Dorothy, owned by Lord Lonsdale, is another fine example of the breed.

FEEDING A DRAFT COLT.

Crushed Oats and Bran With Mother's Milk Is Good Ration.

There is nothing equal to mother's milk for a young foal. If the young mare does not give as much milk as she feels the colt requires and appropriates to, give her grain, though the amount need be small, says the Breeder's Gazette. Oats are better than corn. The combination on a pasture of grasses but corn is very suitable for fattening or making horse quickly at fairs or clover. The small size of the seed of both oats and timothy favors bandages. The main thing is to put it in condition to develop muscle in strength and weight and to keep it going on as rapidly as it can without fat.

To this end the foal should have plenty of room to run and play and should be turned out every part of the day. When it begins to nibble at the grain let it have it. A feed box of oats and bran each where the foal can eat unmolested is a good thing to have in the stable or lot. Crushed oats mixed with a little bran is a good ration as good as any and as can be provided for this purpose. If the mare's supply of milk is clearly inadequate, even when she is fed liberally, the foal may be pushed along by the bottle if it drinks warm sweet cow's milk from a pail and can be handled. It is moderate amount regularly, one or four times a day. When the foal is roadbroke the foal can be made to drive with other horses and learn to lead for refuge in the dirt line.

the end of the first part of August. They have invited athletes from all over the world to take the prizes. Two of the other American besides Sheppard who will probably compete in that country is Harry Giesing.

Sheppard will try for the prizes in the half mile races. The first requisite if he is in old time shape he ought to have no trouble in finishing home a winner in each.

After the Olympic games in 1908, instead of coming home with the rest of the team, Sheppard remained in Europe and won a number of races.

He will place the Scots on their toes at Shen to conserve nasts in their games.

There is no doubt but that America's reputation for production the greatest runners in the world will be the main plainer with Sheppard and Giesing finishing their good against the best of Europe in the National tournament. Between them they don't seem to really have the very best, but when they use their strong suit they are ahead of their champions they will have a large edge on them.

Mike Murray, the coach anyway of the University of Pennsylvania, is making arrangements for Sheppard to visit in England to compete in a number of events. He writes Sheppard that to a number of Englishmen white have asked about Sheppard he will probably be accompanied by Gwyn Henry, the Penn track star.

The professional runners will also have their innings abroad. If plans do not fall several American distance men will journey abroad to try for the big loose currency that is supposed to be waiting around over there. The most sport will run several match races with the best runners in Europe. Some of his dist races will be with several of the best men in the old country. For instance, the race taking place on the isle of Man the last week in July. The Manxmen Scotcherd, the Frenchmen, will be the principal competitors.

Heimer has arranged for a couple of big races in Germany. Most of the Germans are at fever heat over foot running, over 1,500 amateurs competing for one cross country run. Bill Heimer has arranged for a match race with Dietrich Gerhardt, the thinking of taking a trip abroad. Bill Heimer has been over there several times and knows the other side of the Atlantic is much to his liking and it is more than likely he will escape.

MOST ELECT ALL NEW DIRECTORS

Every School Board in Adams County Goes out of Office in November when their Successors will be Elected.

Under the new School Code every district in Adams County must elect a new board of directors at the fall election, the old boards retiring as succeeded by those elected in November. This is of course, true for every district but present directors may not be re-elected. The new boards will consist of five members each, one elected for a term of one year, two for two years and two for two year terms.

The duties of members of the School Code by the Governor the State Superintendent has been divided with ten from all parts of the state from people who seem to have certain portions of the new code interpreted. The majority of these letters ask for information concerning the election of School Directors, and to answer them briefly the following letter which follows in candidates what they must do in the matter of having their names on the ballot.

Where a number of School Directors are to be elected for different lengths of term, each candidate must specify in his nomination petition the term for which he is a candidate.

There will be three groups of candidates on the ballot in this office this year, headed as follows:

School Directors—one year.
School Directors—four years
School Directors—two years.

Each candidate must decide for which term he will be a candidate. Unanimity in voting is not effected that is, if a candidate receives votes under each term specified, he is not considered as such term, but is considered as a separate candidate.

STRAWBERRIES AND CHERRIES

Gettysburg people who deal at the curb market reported on to-day that they found ripened and luscious bushels of fine luscious strawberries during the week. Those corresponding to Market Master Charles G. Miller, during the week mentioned they purchased from the marketmen three hundred and thirty bushels of the berry. Both these amounts sound very large but a better test of the quantity and figures of last year is not known as no record was kept during the first curb market season.

BOND OF THE CHAMPION OF CHAMPIONS

Purchased $3,000, and the record fell at $2,500. Some of the managers thought the town had been sold very and that a third tag day would be a failure. Stewart's hustling band performed to give. More than 260 persons locked in the day's work, and did not provoke best all previous records. So it is that a town which a decade ago feared to tackle the small task of securing raised by a corps of campaigners of her people $200,000 in three days and a half, and on the fourth day added $50,000 for every man, woman and child in the city. Are there any more examples to be found anywhere? Isn't there some good homework in the welfare of your own town? Why not make an example to the rest of the state? Why not show the world what you can do?

Ambassador Reid's Daughter, Who Scorned a Title.

CAN OUTSHINE ANY PEERESS.

Set to Altogether Indifferent to Society, Devoting Herself to Her Husband and Little Boy Who a Son That Makes England Sit Up and Take Notice.

Mrs. John Hubert Ward, the pretty daughter of the American ambassador to England, the Hon. Whitelaw Reid, ranks easily first among the American women who love America Englishmen. It is true that her husband, a younger brother of the Earl of Dudley, is only an "honorable" and therefore not the equal of a duke, but then he is a Ward, the forwardmost envoy of the king Edward and as popular with King George and Queen Mary that he is certain to be a person of importance in the new scheme of things. Before Miss Jean Reid accepted the Hon. John Hubert Ward she had refused scores of desirable suitors, and never could she be was turned away one worse than Miss Reid didn't care for titles.

It was at Marlotte that the romance began. In boy Edward was staying there, and so were the Reids. The Hon. John was in attendance upon the king, who enjoyed the society of the American ambassador's family. Mrs. Reid's father was engaged with his majesty she often found it increased upon herself to entertain the latter's many equerry. For this reason King Edward, who always scrupulously examined matchmaking talent, has been credited with considerable interest in the faith it fit that the royal set seemed to have in Miss Reid.

Few English brides of high degree have had so fine a trousseau as the equerry family at the wedding as did the dainty little maid of Ohio, where Alexandra, especially radiant in white brocade and silver, set off by Miss Reid's pearls, was present. The bride herself was in a box of the chapel royal at St. James' palace on April 30, 1908, the ceremony was performed. The present king and Queen Alexandra, and so, too, were Prince and Princess Christian of Denmark. The guests had a brilliant time at the wedding reception of Ernest Beckwith's aristocracy.

The wedding gifts were on view in the bride's parents, palatial Dorchester House, was a magnificent display. The bride received as a wedding gift from her father $100,000 in cash and 50,000 acres from London, one of the most attractive estates in the whole land. It cost Jean $500,000, and the new owners spent $250,000 on furnishing it. There the Wards entertain frequently, and there they will be married a thing for his godfather and a queen for his godmother. Mrs. Reid Untimed wreath is at their command. Mrs. Ward's father is an ambassador, wealthy man. Her mother ignoring the fact that she is a Ward, has been in London for the last three years. Her mother knows the world and its ways, and her daughter will profit by them. Therefore the fact that she will open her new home for the occasion facilities is a matter of small importance to the Wards' fantastic social leaders. Her father is the ambassador three days a week, and her for the fact that she never think of leaving him for a day. Mrs. Reid would not have it so. She would if they were available. As it is, he accompanies her everywhere, and she will attend to the new queen in Westminster abbey. A MEDIEVAL LOVE AFFAIR

One morning some three centuries ago Sieur Pierre Gaillard, lord of Belle Combe de Malfet, was divided between two emotions as he stood on the narrow bridge that spanned the river Lot, which flowed at the foot of his castle. On the one hand he was proud of the city Beaumont, which he had built and fortified especially for her full complement and which he could see from the bridge overlooking the bridge a young man whom he knew to be a member of the band of Duglay, in only as "honorable" and therefore not the equal of a duke, but then he is a Ward, the forwardmost envoy of the king Edward and as popular with King George and Queen Mary that he is certain to be a person of importance in the new scheme of things. PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY

Go hand in hand. A community that is not confined to any one staple. Such is Adams county. Ask the president of the New Jersey Automobile Club, who has come to this city to the credit of the people that they are progressive. Ask the man who is engaged in good roads work in order to get information and progress and prosperity.

FOR THE GOOD ROADS CAUSE

Present Day Difficulties of Travelers Shown in Pictures.

One of the most interesting methods of advancing the cause of good roads throughout the country is the "Good Roads Train" of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, working in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State Automobile Association.

The company has erected a special car for exhibition purposes, fitted up with lantern slides and stereopticon views, showing the deplorable conditions of the roads in the south, stopping at all the large cities and towns in that section.

The stereopticon equipment is for the purpose of showing the advantages of good roads and the disadvantages of bad roads, the pictures showing decrees caught in the ruts of the roads, and many other incidents, automobiles' wagons delayed by the bad roads, passengers and vehicles thrown on the ruts by a sudden jolt, and the many other difficulties that are met with in the journey and the other from a good road point of view, the pictures are thrown showing the profits and losses that would be derived from the good roads being shown.

Followed by the backers of the present movement that the road to prosperity is through improvement of the means of communication, and the adoption of the most modern methods in the handling of the improvement and the construction of roads and give the whole south an opportunity to show the enormous value of a complete system of improved highways.

WHY?

It is nothing short of remarkable how a long suffering and tax paying community will put up with the incompetency and negligence of a township supervisor. Many of these men are elected because they are good fellows and because they are popular. Others are elected because they are considered good business men, but are absolutely disqualified, and most of them are elected because the proper and approved remedy should be applied.—Exchange.

A Bank Indorses Good Roads.

The Farmers' National Bank, of Canton, Ohio, opens up a new field for helpful work by indorsing good roads in its banks. The following resolution was recently passed by the board of the progressive bank recently:

"Resolved, That the First National bank, do hereby heartily indorse the good roads movement, and will do all in its power to improve the roads in this county.

"The First National is always anxious to push any movement that will help the general welfare of the surrounding people and the deserving farmers of this county.

"During this good road movement, it may be that the farmers cannot see their way clear to pay for the road tax, but if will be necessary to put up a little money to help the cause along. We are willing to help in any way we can to improve the farm to pay necessary money to make the improvements."

THE RURAL SCHOOL

How the Grange May Be Helpful to Education.

Rural Progress Dependent Largely on Rural Schools—Paper Read Before Grange in the State Normal School, Shippensburg.

(Special Correspondence.)

The school district of a few square miles in the open country is the unit in the state of New York. The residents are generally unwilling to give up the pecuniary institution even though the crowding population makes a t very small concourse at times. Consolidations of school districts has been advocated as a means of strengthening districts and offering better opportunities for supervision and instruction. No doubt consolidation is valuable. However, there are still many rural districts where it is impossible to consolidate on account of distance and necessary to keep up a high standard for the school for the children living in the community.

The schoolhouses in the only public building in the district, though the interest should center about its efficiency. Unfortunately interest in school matters is often at low ebb. The residents elected at the annual school meeting by a very small representation of the taxpayers usually a farmer or not yet its educational machinery needs for the year. Sometimes not enough interest exists in the district to have a representative attending the trustees' business at a school meeting. This is wrong and unscientific. It is ready too important interests are contered in the public school to warrant such indifference. Better results will be shown at the school meeting.

The rural schools as a class are dead altogether upon its present management. The town and district in the community should be invited to become a part of the school system. Let there be the same to be concerned in rural schools. Let the grange be the center in keeping up a prosperous, up to date school system. Let every grange be better prepared to figure in rural progress.

No teacher and no equipment is too good for a rural school. It is the rural larger responsibility falls upon the rural school. Many rural schools are but a few children to the school house. Many of the rural schools seem as though they attended a school room for the sake of the teacher. Many rural schools have a high salaried employed while the pupils are deficient in the knowledge of the work which the children in the city schools have. Many rural schools will re-convene with the grange in the community and the grange should be the central educational.

Subjects of study which does not include a knowledge of agriculture and nature study should be dropped or put off to date one. Many teachers have not had the training necessary to enable them to teach the essentials of agriculture and nature study. Many of the teachers are not prepared to give lectures to the pupils on agriculture and nature study. Many teachers are not prepared to give lectures to the pupils on agriculture and nature study. Many teachers are not prepared to give lectures to the pupils on agriculture and nature study.

Many of the schoolrooms of the country are used by phone for the small children on leave of the day. The pupils should have a garden plot for study and observation. Many of the rural schools are not provided with the necessary apparatus for a proper study of nature. COMING HERE ON 8000 MILE TRIP

State Highway Commissioner Bigelow will Visit Gettysburg Next Week on First Leg of Eight Thousand Mile Journey.

An 8,000 mile trip through the state with Gettysburg as the first stopping point, accompanied by some of his engineers, is now contemplated by State Highway Commissioner Bigelow during the next few weeks, starting the beginning of next week. They will endeavor to go over the 196 road routes mentioned in the Sproul bill to be taken over by the state. Speaking of his contemplated tour of the state, Commissioner Bigelow said:

"I have not decided when I will start on my tour of the state. There is much work to be done first and then I will have look to at the roads that the state will take over. My purpose is to go right through with the inspection tour. To do that would require about 80 days with an average traveling distance of a little better than 100 miles a day. Of course, there are places that will require more time than others and the trip may become very wearisome after the first couple of weeks, so that I may be obliged to lay off for a few days, in which event I'll have to look to at the roads that the state will take over. My purpose is to go right through with the inspection tour. To do that would require about 80 days with an average traveling distance of a little better than 100 miles a day. Of course, there are places that will require more time than others and the trip may become very wearisome after the first couple of weeks, so that I may be obliged to lay off for a few days, in which event I'll have to lengthen the schedule.

"Our first important big undertakings will be construction of the state high way from Harrisburg to Gettysburg and of the Lincoln Narrows road, the latter being but 11 miles in length. Hundreds of thousands of people will flock to Gettysburg next year to the anniversary of the battle-field and we want to be sure to have that road completed in good time.

"The department's other work for the present will consist mainly in finishing uncompleted highways and in connecting up unfinished roads where there are connecting links to make. There is a wonderful lot of this sort of thing to be done, and one of the purposes of my long trip is to secure data where most improvements are most necessary. There are many cases in my mind where the value of new roadway connecting already improved highways will be of lasting benefit to the communities through which they run."

TYPHOID FEVER IN THE COUNTY

Thirty Five Cases in McSherrystown. Oxford Stops Abating. Disease Appears in Hanover, Hunterstown and Gettysburg.

Typhoid fever has made its appearance at a number of points in Adams County, New Oxford and vicinity just now receiving a share while McSherrystown reports thirty five cases now under treatment. Typhoid also appeared near Hunterstown and resulted in the death of Jesse Weaver. Idlewilde had a fatal case in the death of Mrs. Taylor Crist and several other cases are now reported in that town.

The New Oxford outbreak reached some weeks ago in an inspection of conditions being made by a representative of the State Department of Health. What the result of his investigation was has never been made public. Typhoid has diminished in New Oxford and vicinity and resulted fatally in a very small proportion of the cases. Only two or three new cases have been reported in the past few weeks.

At McSherrystown conditions are more alarming. For four days after developed there Wednesday arriving bringing the total up to thirty five. The family of Ralph Feist near Seed Hill school house is specially severely afflicted, four cases out of the five in one. One of the family, Frank Feist, was taken to the U. S. Base Hospital No. 2 at York Hospital for treatment.

Gettysburg has but two cases reported. William Timmins has been ill for seven days. Dr. Miller has been ill for seven weeks at his home on York street.

Reports were current that there were a number of cases in and about Bonneauville but the case of Jesse Weaver was the only one diagnosed as typhoid.
